

Assistant Lawyers

Marine Construction Litigation

(2-3 pqe and 3-5 pqe)

CDG is a boutique law firm working exclusively in the global shipping and energy sectors, and is recognised as one of the leading firms in marine construction.

Based at Stockley Park near Heathrow Airport, our business is truly international in scope, and we represent a worldwide client base ranging from ship owners in Europe and North America, to major shipyards in Asia, and leading oil and gas companies in Europe, the US, the Middle East, the Far East and Australia.

Our dispute resolution team works for clients across these sectors, providing advice and support on English law disputes. Our lawyers are accustomed to travelling worldwide to support our clients' business activities and the team has acted in some of the largest maritime disputes seen in the UK.

The firm is now looking for two assistants (2-3 pqe and 3-5 pqe) to join our dispute resolution team handling complex, high value international disputes. The successful candidates will work on a range of shipping, marine construction and energy matters in the High Court and in arbitration in London and other jurisdictions.

This is a great opportunity for lawyers from a shipping or construction litigation or arbitration background to do high quality work for blue-chip clients by joining an internationally renowned boutique practice.

These roles will require people who can learn quickly, respond authoritatively, and who can contribute work of the highest quality. In return, the firm offers a pay and benefits package that is comparable to a City law firm.

For further information please contact Cait Beck on 020 8734 2800 or email her at cait.beck@cdg.co.uk

CDG is an equal opportunities employer and welcomes applications regardless of sex, marital status, ethnic origin, religion, sexual orientation, disability or age.